The Japanese American Leadership Delegation Program (JALD)

In the year 2011, we welcome the eleventh delegation to Japan from March 9 to March 12. Thirteen Japanese American leaders from various professional fields throughout the U.S. visit Tokyo, Kyoto and Osaka to participate in this public symposium, experience Japan’s history and culture, and exchange views with a wide range of Japanese leaders from political, governmental, business and media circles.

The JALD Program is jointly sponsored and organized by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Japan Foundation Center for Global Partnership (CGP) in cooperation with the U.S.-Japan Council, with a view to promoting a mutual understanding between Japanese American community and Japan and strengthening Japan-U.S. relations. The Japanese American leaders who have participated in the Program gain a deeper understanding of contemporary Japan. After their return to the U.S., they are committed to future efforts in advancing Japan-U.S. relations from long-term perspectives and in developing broader networks among the future JALD leaders.
